Whitehall, February 24.

ON Friday laſt Mr. Crew, one of His Majeſty's Meſſengers, arrived from Paris with Letters from Mr. Poyntz, His Majeſty's Ambaſſadour Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary, giving an Account, that his Excellency having made Complaint to the French Court, of the Works laid to be carrying on by the Inhabitants of Dunkirk, in order to repair their Harbour, M. Chauvelin, Keeper of the Seals, and Secretary of State, ſent his Excellency the following Letter; in which was incloſed a Copy of his moſt Chriſtian Majeſty's Order to forbid the carrying on of any ſuch Works, and to demoliſh any that may have been erected contrary to the Treaties of Utrecht in 1713, and of the Hague in 1717.

Verſailles, the 27th of February, 1730, N. S.

I SEND, Sir, to your Excellency a Copy of the Order which the King cauſes to be diſpatch'd for the making upon the Place the ſtricteſt Examination. Although there be no Need of our giving new Proofs, that we carry our Fidelity even to a Nicety, I am perſwaded, that this new Mark of our Exactneſs will be very agreeable to the King of Great Britain and to the Nation: We certainly ſhall never give Occaſion for any Doubt in this Reſpect; and I beg of your Excellency to be perſwaded, that no Man can honour you more perfectly than I do.

Chauvelin.
